

Mark 4:40-41

He said to his disciples, "Why are you so afraid? Do you still have no faith?"

They were terrified and asked each other, "Who is this? Even the wind and the waves obey him!" NIV

Growing up out in the country, I remember fondly the days when my family and I would sit on the porch during stormy nights. We'd watch for miles as the storm slowly approached us, just chatting and sometimes even singing, enjoying our day. I think there's a real beauty to storms that you just don't get to see during normal weather. When the sky gets dark and cloudy, and the lightning races across it, and you hear the sound of the gentle thunder crawl through the clouds. We'd sit and watch the storm come until it was clear that it was time to go inside. To this day, I love to watch a gentle storm. Key word there - "gentle". There are certainly storms and weather events that rightly and truly terrify me, and my respect level skyrockets as I'm scrambling to get the kiddos and the dog inside before everything turns black and white and the twister hits. Sometimes, life emulates stormy skies, and it seems when we do ask for help, all we hear from heaven is thunder. What could God possibly be up to with an answer like that? Come join us at New Heights this weekend and we'll explore that question together. Hope to see you then! - Zach
