Colossians 4:4

Pray that I will proclaim this message as clearly as I should. NLT

The other week, we played a game of “telephone” with the youth group. It was pretty fun. We started with a simple message and whispered it into the ears of one of our Elevate students. He then whispered it to the next, and so on and so forth until Kerrigan Clark was the one who had to tell me what the message was. She felt silly telling the message, and rightly so, because the end message was nothing like the original. But that seems to be how communication works no matter how you try to pass information around, right? You’d think that with all these tools at our disposal that we’d have an easier time getting accurate information across, but I personally trust the news I hear less and less than I have before. I want to make sure the news comes from a verified source and that person/people knows what he/she/they is/are talking about. The same is true when it comes to communicating the gospel message. Paul tells the Colossians in Colossians 4 to pray that Paul communicates the message clearly as he should to those that the Lord has sent him to. That should really be something we’re all praying for. Come out to New Heights this week and we’ll talk more.
